5. Can the event be publicized through media?

Schools and MPs may wish to publicize their involvement in this year's activities, with approval from both the school and the MP. Schools and MPs may also use their own communications (Web site, Facebook, Twitter) to raise awareness about National Child Day and the "Bring your MP to School Day".

UNICEF Canada also invites participating schools to provide permission to UNICEF Canada for the use of any photography/videography taken by participants at the event, and the use of students' quotations for potential use in UNICEF Canada's communications.

Photographs/videos that feature children's faces/identifying features must be accompanied by UNICEF Canada's release form (available by emailing policy@unicef.ca).

It should be mutually understood that the use of quotations and photographs/video should not be used for advancing particular political platforms but will be used in the spirit of raising awareness of National Child Day and students' civic participation. Following the school visit, UNICEF Canada will issue a press release on November 20 to raise additional awareness about Bring Your MP to School Day and the importance of National Child Day.

6. What is National Child Day?

National Child Day has been celebrated in Canada since it was officially declared with the Child Day Act in 1993 to commemorate the UN Declaration on the Rights of the Child and the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. The day coincides with Universal Children's Day, proclaimed by the United Nations General Assembly in 1954 to encourage all countries to institute a day to promote mutual exchange and understanding among children and to take action to promote the well-being of the world's children. In addition to UNICEF Canada's efforts to promote National Child Day, it is also celebrated widely across the country and promoted by civil society organizations and various levels of government. ## 7. Why did UNICEF Canada choose "Bring Your MP to School Day" as its theme for National Child Day?

Building on UNICEF Canada's historic role in commemorating National Child Day, we have launched a "Bring your MP to School Day" initiative so that children's voices, concerns and interests find expression in and enjoy meaningful attention from Parliamentarians. The link between Members of Parliament and their constituents is at the core of the representative function of Parliament. Engaging with children and youth – generally a quarter of the population – helps inform decisions that affect this vulnerable but non-voting population, and advances the civic education of Canada's youngest citizens.
